How Michael Met Allison

by Leah Hakimian

Dr. Leah Hakimian currently researches the question: How do Jewish couples meet and marry? In the 90's she founded two nonprofit Jewish match-making programs, and continues to champion the role of community in helping singles meet. She writes on a volunteer basis to inspire her readers and to encourage them to keep their "antennae up." She resides in Jerusalem and Great Neck, New York. HaChodesh now has the privilege of sharing her stories with you.

"Look for guys by following your hobbies," suggests wikiHow. "Ask yourself what you really love to do." Allison Dwyer, 26, was doing what she really loved - cheering for the track team of her alma mater, Emory University. Michael (Mike) Rothbart, 29, was at the Armory Track and Field Center for the same reason. "No way was I there to look for guys," insists Allison.

Michael continues: "We were lucky that a mutual friend from Emory, Rebecca, was at the same place at the same time." Some might call it "bashert" (meant to be). Some might call it "chance." Professor Albert Bandura, a Stanford University psychologist, has written: "Chance encounters play a prominent role in shaping the course of human lives." And indeed, two lives were changed when Rebecca said to Allison: "Come and meet Mike."

Chocolate & Chocolate Chip Trifle

By @TheKosherChef

Chocolate Cake Ingredients:

2 cups all-purpose flour	1 cup canola oil
1 teaspoon salt	1 cup brewed coffee
1 teaspoon baking powder	1 cup milk (or soy milk)
2 teaspoons baking soda	2 eggs
3/4 cup baking cocoa	1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups sugar

1. Preheat oven to 325°. Sift together dry ingredients in a bowl. Add oil, coffee and milk; mix at medium speed for 1 minute. Add eggs and vanilla; beat 2 minutes longer. (Batter will be thin.)
2. Pour into two greased and floured 9-in. round baking pans
3. Bake 25-30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pans. Cool on wire racks.
4. Slice the cake horizontally to make 3 layers of cake.

Layering the trifle:

- Slices of chocolate cake
- Pack of chocolate chip cookies - crushed
- 1 rich whip - whip in a blender
- 1 pack chocolate pudding

Place a layer of chocolate cake on the bottom of your trifle bowl. Pour a few spoons of chocolate pudding over it and spread it evenly. Sprinkle the crushed cookies over the pudding and spread rich whip on top of the cookies. Repeat these steps until you reach the top of the trifle bowl. Decorate with the chocolate chip cookies. Keep in the refrigerator until ready to serve. Enjoy.
